Russell Stannard is the founder of www.teachertrainingvideos.com. He was awarded the Times Higher 'Outstanding Initiative in ICT' in 2008 and the British Council 'Technology ELTons' in 2010 for his work in using technology in language teaching. He writes regular columns about technology in English Teaching Professional and The Teacher Trainer. His website receives more than 300,000 visitors a year and more than 22,000 subscribe to his newsletter. He is a regular speaker at conferences and events all over the world.

In Flipping Your Classes you can expect:

- a practical, hands-on course where you will build your own Flipped Classroom.
- a combination of live webinars and specialist online learning material.
- a free educational copy of SNAGIT screen capture technology worth $30.
- a 3-week course with continual support at every stage and detailed feedback on final project.
- an estimated 7-8 hours study per week
- NILE certification awarded on completion of course content.
- a course delivered by British Council ELTons winner Russell Stannard.

The programme is limited to just 15 places, offered on a first-come, first-served basis, early booking essential.
